LED Fabric Lightboxes for retail branding

Justin Hawes, MD Scan Display, says: "We print all these items in-house, so we have complete control over the production process and can deliver on our promise of value-for-money, flexibility and ease of doing business with us."

And things are incredibly easy. In-house graphic designers can assist with your artwork if needed, while the printing facilities are open 24/7. This means you can receive sample prints and quick turn-around times, while being exempt from overtime charges. Short runs with no minimum quantity are also welcome.

Durable fabric graphics for outdoor branding

In addition to its new products, Scan Display still provides its popular fabric branding system, the Tension Fabric System. This versatile product has multiple applications, such as video conferencing backdrops, retail displays, exhibits, showrooms, reception areas and foyers, interior signage or advertising and more.

Its discrete and slim aluminium frames come with straight and curved options, and can be wall-mounted, free-standing or suspended from the ceiling. Single- or double-sided graphics are possible, as are back- and front-lighting options. Each job is made to your required dimensions, with seamless prints of up to 50m by 3m. As a bonus, the graphics are washable and reusable, and easy enough for you to take down or put up as needed.
