

Axis selects new business development manager

Axis Communications has named Justin Ludik as its new business development manager for Southern Africa.

Ludik will be responsible for building direct relations with Axis end users and consultants in his new role.

He has over 15 years of experience in the security ecosystem.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>