

Cellulant launches Tingg, a digital payment platform for retail in Zambia

Cellulant, a multinational payments company in Africa that enables businesses to accept digital and mobile payments from their customers, has launched Tingg, a retail digital payments platform in Zambia.

Tingg provides simplified payment tools and processes that allow a merchant to manage its payments. This allows businesses to enable their customers to make payments for goods and services using locally relevant payment options.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>