Amy Rossling, an 18-year old dancer from Cape Town, is literally dancing her way to Los Angeles after recently winning one of five spots in the European final of Nike's online Dance to LA competition. Rossling's one-minute freestyle dance routine received the most votes out of the South African participants on www.nikewomen.com, which automatically qualified her as SA's representative in the European final. Once in The Netherlands, she clinched one of the five spots up for grabs, together with the dancers representing Russia, Turkey, Sweden and The Netherlands.
