

World Net Logistics expands following Rhenus Group acquisition

Business is booming for freight forwarding and logistics company World Net Logistics following its takeover by Germany's Rhenus Group in early 2019.

The acquisition has been beneficial as it has assisted the company to expand its global operations into new sectors, such as pharmaceuticals, and tender for international business where owning a global network is a pre-condition.

World Net Logistics will change its name and re-brand to Rhenus before the end of 2020.
