

Hilton appoints new assistant director of international sales

Thabani Ndlovu is the new assistant director of international sales for Hilton Worldwide Africa and Indian Ocean, working from Hilton Worldwide's regional office in Johannesburg.

Thabani Ndlovu

Hilton Worldwide recently announced a new addition to its regional office in Johannesburg by introducing Thabani Ndlovu, assistant director of international sales for Hilton Worldwide Africa and Indian Ocean.

Ndlovu, who has been with Hilton Worldwide for over nine years, has held several positions during this time and joins the team from the UK international sales office. In her new role, Ndlovu will be responsible to manage and grow market share for Hilton Worldwide Africa & Indian Ocean, within the domestic and international markets.

In addition to this, she will play an instrumental role in supporting the new business acquisitions drive across the region. "We are thrilled to welcome Thabani to our regional team and believe she will continue to add great value in her new role and deliver excellent results. With the introduction of the international sales office, we now have a central point of contact connecting clients to over 3800 hotels, which further enhances our service offering," says Daniel Ebo, regional director of sales for Hilton Worldwide Africa & Indian Ocean.

For more information, go to www.hiltonworldwide.com.