

Acsa to provide Cansa with donations, volunteers

As its annual socio-economic initiative, Airports Company South Africa (Acsa) has joined hands with Cancer Association of South Africa (Cansa) through philanthropic donations and volunteering support. Cansa intends on utilising Acsa's donations to educate members of the public about the disease, train auxiliary nurses, develop infrastructure, and cancer research.

The new national partnership also includes an employee volunteer programme that will encourage and empower the company's employees to give their time to cancer support organisations, whilst also supporting employees who have cancer through an employee wellness programme.
