The 2019 BusinessTech Digital Banking Conference took place on 13 February at The Venue in Melrose Arch, and was a great success with excellent speakers and a packed audience.

The conference drew expert speakers from across the banking industry to share their insights into the future of digital finance in South Africa.

The conference was hosted by The Money Show's Bruce Whitfield, with an opening word from BusinessTech's editor, Gareth Vorster.

The keynote speaker was Sandile Shabalala, CEO of TymeBank, who shared his insights into building the first digital bank to enter into the South African market.

Shabalala was joined by RMI's Dominique Collett, Absa's Aupa Monyatsi, FNB's Dr Mark Nasila, Wolfpack CEO Craig Rosewarne, and Absa's Colin Iles.
