At the IIE's Rosebank College, we believe in changing lives and empowering South Africans in every industry because every industry has a role to play in our society. Covid-19 has highlighted the importance of the movement of goods and services, with some logistics companies making moves during this time to ensure that we receive our goods on time and intact.

We have also seen entrepreneurs making moves and setting up delivery businesses in the townships and other areas, creating opportunities where there are seemingly none. The logistics and supply chain management industry has experienced considerable change, including the creation of digital apps to improve the movement of goods and services. Embracing the fourth industrial revolution has been a must for most industries and individuals. Technology enables efficiencies and, in most cases, empowers businesses to scale and cater to more industries, thereby improving their reach.

Every industry requires training and therefore quality affordable education is paramount to the empowerment of both individuals and businesses.

Why choose IIE Rosebank College to kickstart your logistics career?
