

Spaza advertising: An ever-growing market in South Africa

Issued by MegaVision Media

6 Dec 2019

According to research done by Nielsen South Africa, R1 of every R5 spent in South Africa takes place at informal spaza or township stores. This makes the informal retail environment a very attractive sector worth approximately R46bn.

The buzz around township advertising has pushed a demand from brands to focus their efforts where the growth is significant and market share is up for grabs in a way that is not so obvious in the relatively stagnant formal retail environment.
