The hotel features 315 sophisticated guestrooms, five internationally-inspired dining destinations, a luxury Spa by JW, a swimming pool, a fitness centre, and eight event spaces for gatherings and celebrations. An additional 51 spacious serviced apartments and a sky bar and lounge are slated to open later in the year.

An urban sanctuary - bringing the outdoors in

The hotel's interior design is largely inspired by the beauty, heritage, and palette of Kenya's great outdoors. Designed by George Wong, the property is inspired by the spirit and story of an African adventure, with an earth-toned colour palette of savannah browns, Maasai reds, cultural terracotta, and safari green incorporated throughout its spaces.

These aesthetic choices introduce a new echelon of luxury to the city, featuring intentional spaces that allow guests to connect with the essence of Africa while enjoying the comforts of a modern urban hotel. Throughout the property, a collection of unique works of art - from sculptures and handmade ceramics to murals and regional textiles - tell the story of the breathtaking Kenyan landscape.

The guest rooms and suites - including one Presidential Suite - offer guests a contemporary retreat to recharge and reset with breathtaking views of the city. Situated on the nine topmost floors of the high-rise tower, spacious serviced apartments will offer luxurious, exclusive experiences for long-stay guests and family groups in one-, two-, and three-bedroom apartments.
