296 Loeries were awarded across 14 categories including 5 Grands Prix, 32 Golds, 72 Silvers, 116 Bronzes, 18 Craft Golds and 53 Craft Certificates.

Around 2,500 entries were received, with 16% of entries from outside South Africa. A total of 646 brands were represented by 281 agencies from 15 countries across Africa and the Middle East. The awards were judged by over 140 regional and international industry leaders in their fields including international Jury Presidents Nedal Ahmed, Tara McKenty, Ralf Heuel and Katja Thielen.

The 5 Grands Prix were awarded to:

- In the Design category, the architecture project 'Kleine Rijke' by David Krynauw, South Africa
- In Typography Design, Theatre Hours' 'Acting Identity' by TBWA\Istanbul
- In the Film category, TV & Cinema Commercials, Nando's 'Afro-tising' by M&C Saatchi Abel, South Africa
- In Internet & Mobile Audio Commercials, City Lodge Hotel Groups' 'The Real Cost' by TBWA\Hunt Lascaris Johannesburg, South Africa
- In Live Activations, Philips & The Nelson Mandela Foundation's 'Mandela Centenary' by Ogilvy Johannesburg, South Africa

"The media landscape has changed, the way we view, what we view and how we access content is also constantly evolving. It's important that the advertising industry evolves at the same pace. We are invested in the Loeries because of this," says Fahmeeda Cassim Surtee, CEO of DStv Media Sales.

"We want to help support and grow an industry where creativity is nurtured, where good work is recognised, where talent is rewarded and where innovative ideas are amplified."

Alistair King, chief creative officer of the King James Group, was inducted into the Loeries Hall of Fame, an accolade that recognises individuals who have helped build the advertising industry into what it is today. "It is worth noting that he is the first founder and head of an agency that remains 100% independent to be honoured in this way by the Loeries," says Loeries CEO, Andrew Human.
