

Old Mutual provides isolation facility for Western Cape Covid-19 efforts

Old Mutual has handed over a fully refurbished quarantine and self-isolation facility to Premier Alan Winde and Transport and Public Works Minister Bonginkosi Madikizela today, which will be used in the Western Cape's fight against Covid-19.

The company turned the former training centre and club house, located at the MuPine Golf Club in Pinelands into a 300-bed quarantine and self-isolation health facility for use by the Western Cape Government. Particular attention to detail has been paid to ensure that the group's R4.5m investment in the facility enables the province to effectively strengthen its fight against the Covid-19 pandemic.
